A CONCISE REVIEW

OF SOME OF THE

DISCOVERIES AND IMPROVEMENTS

made or published in America during the last twelve months ending November 1, 1802.

UNDER THE NATIONAL GOVERNMENT.

Mr. Ellicot the Geographer of the U. States, has added materially to the knowledge of our Southern frontier, by the Survey he has made of the territorial line between Georgia and the Floridas. He has alſo aſcertained by Aſtronomical calculations, the latitudes of ſeveral important ſtations. Among theſe are thoſe of the Natchez, New-Orleans and Conflux of the Ohio and Miſſiſſippi Rivers. Theſe terriſtrial and celeſtial obſervations have added conſiderably to our geographical knowledge.

The care of the Government has been extended to the wretched condition of American ſeamen, dying unfriended and unaſſiſted at New-Orleans. Mr. Jones and Mr. Bay had repreſented to the Secretary of State, how forlorn was the ſituation of the boatmen from the Ohio as well as of the ſailors from the Atlantic Coaſt. To provide relief was an early and earneſt object of the adminiſtration. And meaſures were immediately adopted to erect an hoſpital for the accommodation of American ſeamen at New-Orleans, and to obtain leave of the Spaniſh Government for the purpoſe.

Under the preſidency of Mr. Adams and purſuant to a reſolve of congreſs, Mr. Richard Cooper was appointed to explore the region ſouth of Lake Superior, where Copper-mines are alledged to be. The agent was inſtructed to make his ſurvey and report before the end of the enſuing ſeſſion of the National Legiſlature. But, the expedition having been delayed, until the time preſcribed had expired, Mr. Lincoln the attorney general directed the agent to ſtay his proceedings and account to the treaſury for the money advanced for the ſervice. The reaſon given for this ſtep by preſident Jefferſon was, "that he did not deem it juſtifiable to commence a courſe of expenditure after "the expiration of the reſolution authorizing it."

The proviſion for piers in the Delaware, light-houſes and buoys in Long Iſland ſound, and on other parts of the American coaſt, demonſtrates the vigilance diſplayed by Congreſs in providing for the ſafety of navigation and attending to the intereſt of our merchants.

BY THE STATES, AND COMPANIES AUTHORIZED BY THEM.

Commerce has reaſon to rejoice that more correct ideas are entertained than formerly, about quarantines and maritime reſtraints. Congreſs having left the particular port regulations about health laws to the ſtate legiſlatures and municipalities of cities reſpectively, each has adopted ſuch mode of counteracting ſickneſs as it has judged proper. After the concluſive reaſonings of Mr. Webſter againſt the prevailing notions on importing diſeaſes, and enforcing quarantines to keep them out, the citizens of the United States are becoming ſatisfied, as rapidly as can be expected, of their unreaſonable abſurdity.—They are opening their eyes to the alarming loſs and damage, by detention at quarantine. They are becoming convinced that the true cauſe of the diſtempers uſually aſcribed to importation is engendered on ſhip board; and that the ſtate of health at the place whence the veſſel laſt ſailed has little or nothing to do in the buſineſs. Experience has amply ſhewn them that when ſhips are kept as clear as genteel houſes are, and ſcoured and cleanſed by the ſame methods, that there is as remarkable an exemption of ſickneſs within them as on ſhore. And the conviction is gaining ſtrength every day, that as malignant fever and diſtempers deemed hitherto contagious are not catched or brought from foreign countries, but really ſpring from their proper cauſes introduced and accumulated on board during the voyage, that the direct application of remedies, antidotes and preventions ought to be to the nuiſances and poiſon there engendered, lurking in her bottom and ſides.

When theſe facts are fully underſtood, the whole of the formidable buſineſs of quarantine, arrayed in all its ſuperſtitious terrors, will be reduced to its plain and obvious meaning, which is neither more nor leſs than the cleanſing a naſty ſhip, and the ſame modes that are univerſally practiſed by our ſervants to purify naſty houſes. The conſequence of which conviction is, that the term of quarantine, inſtead of laſting, by an arbitary and prepoſterous mandate, four or forty days, will be ſhortened to as many hours, or to the mere time that ſhall be neceſſary to ſcrape off her dirt, waſh her down with ley, pump her out a few times, white-waſh with lime, and give her a good ventilation. In America there is the greateſt progreſs making in theſe wholeſome and neceſſary reforms, and her citizens will have the honor of unfettering trade and navigation from the ſhackles which have burthened them ever ſince the time of the cruſades in the eleventh century. A number of health officers, with an intelligence and deciſion that does them great honor, already act upon this modern principle, and relieve the merchants from the oppreſſion of a fanatical and barbarous body of regulations, not a whit better adapted to the preſent ſtate of commerce and ſociety than the tenures of lands in grand ſerjeanty and in villenage. The beneficial conſequences of ſuch excellent modes of doing buſineſs, cannot fail to produce a proper effect upon the public mind.

The legiſlature of Pennſylvania has received a communication on the virtues of a ſpecies of chick weed, to prevent the the dreadful diſtemper occaſioned by the bite of a mad dog or other rabid animal. If this turns out on trial, to be equal to the recommendation given of it, mankind will have reaſon to rejoice in the diſcovery of a remedy for one of the moſt ſhocking of all diſeaſes.

Connecticut has diſtinguiſhed itſelf for the number and excellence of its turn-pike roads. The great advantage derived from theſe improvements are becoming more rapidly and generally known and acknowledged. The citizens feel and approve the additional convenience, ſpeed, economy and ſafety which they afford to all ſorts of travellers and paſſengers.

New York is ſcarcely behind Connecticut in the ſpirit of amendment with regard to roads. From Albany, Troy and Lanſingburg as central points at the head of navigation, they extend eaſt, weſt, north and ſouth; facilitating intercourſe with the remoteſt part of the commonwealth as it is waſhed by lake Champlain and lakes Ontario and Erie. From Hudſon alſo turnpike roads are eſtabliſhed to the weſtern parts of Connecticut and Maſſachuſetts on one ſide of the North river, and are opening towards Schoharie, Cherry Valley and the great weſtern country, on the other. From Poughkeepſie likewiſe, theſe admirable roads are branching in various directions. With pleaſure the public has lamented that the impediments to the paſſage of boats between Troy and Lanſingburg are removed; and that the bridge & cauſeway from Fluſhing to New Town are paſſable.

Virginia has completed the work in which ſhe and Maryland have been for a number of years engaged, in rendering the great falls of the Potomack paſſable by boats loaded with produce, and ſtock. This noble and important enterprize muſt give a new ſpring to the agriculture and commerce of the upper & interior country. What effect it may work upon the city of Waſhington is problematical; but there can be no rational doubt that the eſtabliſhed marts of Georgetown and Alexandria will be greatly the gainers by it.

By the enterprize of individuals.

Mr. Loſſings Improvements in the burning of Lime are highly worthy of being underſtood and adopted. Much of the cloſeneſs and ſtability of houſes depends upon the due prepartion of the lime with which they are cemented. And the quality of half burned and faulty lime bro't to market calls earneſtly for a corrective.

Few men have diſplayed more mechanical ingenuity than Mr. Bruff. His inſtrument for extracting teeth in a perpendicular direction is an uſeful invention—And conſidering how frequent that operation is, it is a pity that is not more generally known to Dentiſts, Surgeons, and other operators in that way.

Mr. Stilwill's Smut Cone, for cleaning wheat is well worthy the attention of millers. when we conſider the great importance of our exported flour, it becomes immediately apparent, that every machine which can rid the grain of its impurity, muſt be ſerviceable. It may therefore be hoped that this invention will be found to be a good addition to the German fan, and the rolling ſcreen; and co-operate with the elevator, the hopper boy and other excellent machinery of Mr. Evans.

Col. Alexander Anderſon's improvement in diſtilling was deemed ſo conſiderable as to attract the attention of government, a little before the repeal of the internal taxes. An account of this was given by Mr. Graeff, collector of the revenue at Lancaſter to Gen. P. Muhlenberg, ſupervisor of Pennſylvania diſtrict, and by him tranſmitted to Mr. Miller, commiſſioner of the revenue. Having been by this latter office laid before the Secretary of the Treaſury, it was by him ſubmitted to Congreſs. The ſuperior advantages of this mode of diſtilling would probably have rendered it neceſſary for the exciſe to have been laid not merely upon the capacity of the ſtill, but upon the quantity diſtilled. Alſo, Mr. Michael Krafft is reported to have made great improvements in diſtilling, whereby there is a remarkable ſaving in fuel and labour; and the ſpirit is increaſed in quantity and equal in quality to that procured by the old mode.

Baron Carondeſſex has made a number of experiments upon the Platina lately brought from the mines of Chaco, far up the river Magdalena, in Terra Firma.—Three hundred pounds of this rare and ſingular metal have been exhibited in New-York; and Baron Carondeſſex has ſucceeded in refining and melting a portion of it.

Gypſum continues to do wonders in American agriculture. So cheap and powerful a manure has given a ſpring to farming, beyond any thing ever known. But its beneficial effects are almoſt entirely limited to the interior country. On the Seacoaſt and iſlands, it does very little ſervice. It has become a general article of export from the Bay of Fundy; but our cultivation can well afford to pay for it, with their increaſed crops. It is of ſuch an unſpeakable benefit to our huſbandry, that all the landings on the Hudſon between New-York, and Albany, are loaded with pile maſſes of it.

The Whale Fiſhery, on the South ſide of Long-Iſland has conſiderably increaſed. Latterly it had been very much neglected. But laſt winter, a numbet of whales were caught and killed by the inhabitants, who attacked them in boats, lauched from the ſhore.

Dr. Woodhouſe has publiſhed ſome very deciſive and ſtriking experiments on the function aſcribed to vegetables, of recruiting the atmoſphere with ſupplies of ozygenous or vital air, He denies that they poſſeſs ſuch a function in the manner that has been aſcribed to them, they do not neceſſarily nor always afford pure air when expoſed to ſunſhine, but on the contrary, afford it only occaſionally. And when this is the caſe, the vital air is not a ſecretion from their leaves, as has been taught for twenty years paſt, but a mere extrication of its oxygene from the fixed air, which plants decompoſe for the ſake of its carbon to be added to their food and nouriſhment. Theſe experiments are directly oppoſed to a very faſhionable and celebrated doctrine.

The introduction of Spaniſh ſheep into the United States by our two foreign miniſters, Humphries and Livingſton, reflects much honour on the enterprize and patriotiſm of thoſe gentlemen. It is ſincerely to be hoped that their enterprize will be attended with ſucceſs; but in a country where it is the eſtabliſhed faſhion to feed upon the firſtlings of the flock, and ſend the beſt lambs to the butcher, there is reaſon to fear that the offſpring of the merinos may be doomed to premature death with as little compunction as our ordinary breed.

The Kinepock is gaining more and more ſpread and credit in America. Dr. Waterhouſe in Boſton, Dr. Seaman in New York, Dr. Coke in Philadelphia, Dr. Spence in Virginia, and D. Gantt in Maryland, have diſtinguiſhed themſelves very honourably in introducing and propagating this mild ſubſtitute for the ſmall pox. In New York there is a regular aſſociation of gentlemen to diffuſe the benefits of it among the leſs wealthy part of the citizens; and a houſe has been built by them on a piece of ground granted by the common council of the city, for the purpoſe of holding their meetings, and receiving patients. The vaccine poiſon has been diſcovered on the teats of American cows in ſeveral inſtances.

From Playfair's Statiſtical Breviary.

STATISTICAL ACCOUNT

Before the Revolution,

Originally the freeſt nation in Europe, France gradually ſuffered its liberties to be abſorbed in royal prerogative, and the ſtates general, a conſtitutional legiſlative power, intended as a control on the executive power, had long been diſpenſed with, ſo that the government ended in abſolute monarchy. The parliament of Paris, which was only a court of juſtice under color of oppoſing royal prerogative, had often attempted to become, and affected to conſider itſelf as the guardian of the people and of repreſenting the ſtates general; but all their efforts againſt the royal power only terminated in its more firm eſtabliſhment, until the laſt effort, which overturned it entirely.

The French are violent, quick, generous, and enthuſiaſtic; but cold deliberation, a ſenſe of juſtice, and an attentive regard to maxims of prudence are neceſſary in either a republican or mixed government. In all the aſſemblies of the ſtates general, previous to 1789, the impatience of ſome, and the enthuſiaſm of others, enabled the court to triumph. In the laſt meeting, when the current of public opinion ſet in another direction, it was with a violence that nothing could reſiſt, and the monarchy was ſpeedily ſwept away, together with every inſtitution attached to it.

The power of the many was the firſt ſubſtitute for the power of the few; but this is a deſpotiſm in which there is no juſtice, no ſafety, no protection, which has in all times been ſhort-lived, and individual tyrants have ſtarted up and governed in its name.

Several ſuch have governed in France, with great ſeverity until at laſt a general of uncommon perſonal merit and abilities, has ventured to ameliorate the ſtate of the people, and to govern with mildneſs and moderation. How it will be when the courſe of events puts the reins of government into feebler hands, is very uncertain; but it is to be hoped, for the ſake of humanity, that experience will reach moderation, & moderation ſet bounds for enthuſiaſm.

There is not a more fruitful country than France—but there are few mines of any ſort in it, conſequently the exports conſiſt chiefly of wines, fruits and manufactures of a finer kind, for which the nation is famous; giving in general the law in matters of taſte and faſhion to all the nations of Europe.

ANECDOTE.

An honeſt tar hired a horſe to carry him a few miles, but before he had gone many yards, he found he poſſeſſed the uſual excellencies of blindneſs, lameneſs, ſtumbling, &c. The ſailor, however (having been unſhipped twice with very little ceremony in the length of half a mile, by the creature's falling on its knees) hit upon a very whimſical mode of curing the impediment, which was by tying a large ſtone to the tail, and in that ſtate rode it ſeveral miles, ſwearing, ſhiver his timbers, but it was the only thing to prevent the ſhip's going too much a-head.

A Gentleman was lately aſked for a deſcription of a lady to whom he was paying his addreſſes; her charms (he ſaid) might be deſcribed in ſix-fuls, namely ſhe was beauti-ful, duti-ful, grace-ful, play-ful, fanci-ful, and care-ful.

IMPORTANT.

A letter from New Orleans, dated the 19th October, to a respectable merchant of this city—states, that on the afternoon of that day a proclamation was posted up by order of the intendant, closing the port not merely against the entrance of produce from the Atlantic in American vessels but also against ALL PRODUCE FLOATED DOWN THE MISSISSIPPI. This measure had created great consternation among the American merchants there, who had expedited an express by the Charlotte to bring a copy of the order for the information of government, and of our merchants generally. It was even doubtful whether goods deposited would be suffered to be exported in American bottoms, but sugar had positively been prohibited. (Balt. Pap.)

From the London Courier of October 2.

The troops of the Helvetic republic have been defeated under the walls of Berne. A Convention was entered into on the 18th ult. between the govr't of that republic and the troops of the opposite party, in which it was agreed by the latter, that the powers composing, and employed under the former, together with the troops of the government, should be allowed to leave Berne unmolested, and retire to Lausanne. The ministers from foreign powers to the Helvetic Republic are to remain under the guarantee of the rights of nations, and to be furnished with facilities to proceed wherever they may judge it suitable. Hostages were reciprocally given for the due performance of the articles of the convention.

The Helvetic government, with the French minister, arrived at Lausanne on the 20th ult. The Helvetic troops are to assemble at Morut, Payerne, and the environs. Orders are given to raise a company of Volunteers in each district, and to bring into service all the artillery and a company of dragoons.

The towns of Arau and Soleure have been taken possession of by the insurgents.

Previous to the capitulation of Berne Citizen Verniac, the French minister, wished to quit that city, and return to Paris; but at the instance of several members of the government, he consented to remain in Switzerland.

It is stated in a letter from Basle; that the French government has detached 12,000 men to restore tranquility in Switzerland.

Our private correspondence from Paris, has, this day, enabled us to remedy, by a communication of some importance, the deficiencies of the French papers, which are again nearly silent, as to events passing in France. A conspiracy of an extensive nature, and which though suppressed, would excite considerable alarm, if the government did not almost disavow the knowledge of it, has been discovered at Rennes, the former capitol of Britanny. The new Prefect of that city and its department, was, it seems, informed, soon after his arrival, that a Jacobin plot, for the restoration of the constitution of 1793, was in existence; and that not, as might be supposed, amongst a few obscure, or proscribed individuals, but amongst persons in considerable stations—the commander of the garrison of the place and several of his officers. According to our correspondent, this magistrate had the accuracy of the information, immediately proved to him, when he ordered the commandant of the Gendarmerie to arrest the commandant of the garrison, the former refusing to obey him. He was then reduced to the necessity of trying the fidelity of the whole garrison at a general parade; and even there his orders were received with hesitation, and even with a repetition of the refusal. The troops, however, beginning to divide into parties, and a majority probably appearing for the representative of the First Consul, the commandant was at length arrested, and is now in the temple at Paris.

Such are the circumstances, as they have reached our correspondent. Whether it be that they should be considered, chiefly, as an exaggeration of some dissention between the officers of the garrison of Rennis or that the French government do not choose to have the public occupied with such affairs, the Paris papers do not contain a word upon the subject.

According to report, several changes are shortly to take place in the French ministry. The marine and war departments are, it is said to be united, and confided to Lucien Bonaparte. Joseph Bonaparte, is to be minister of Foreign Affairs and the home department, which are also to be united, & Talleyrand Minister of Finance.

From a Bridge-Town (Barbados) paper.

To all Printers of Newspapers in the West-India islands and America

WHEREAS William Forbes (second son of Mr. Forbes Mitchell, of Thainston, Aberdeenshire) at the 9th year of his age, entered the navy, on board his majesty's ship Southampton, then commanded by the honorable captain Forbes, (since deceased) which ship he having quited, he was afterwards heard of from on board the Trent, in 1798. He quitted the latter at St. Thomas, and was supposed to have gone to St. Croix, since which he has never been heard of, nor left any clue by which he may be traced.

The said William Forbes (who may probably have adopted that of Mitchell, in addition to his own name, as being the lineal heir of the above estate of Thainston) is now in his twentieth year; and, as a discovery of his retreat is of the utmost importance, the printers in the several West-India islands, and in the states of America, are most earnestly intreated to let this advertisement make its appearance in their several papers, and they will sincerely oblige a parent, anxious to hear of a son whom she has not seen since about two months before the death of his father; as through so many channels, it may have the good fortune, at length, to fall into his own hands.

The Russian American Company continues to give more and more extent to this branch of commerce, which, in time will undoubtedly become of importance to Russia. It is now employed in a plan which is of the greatest consequence, not only to the trade, but also to the honor of Russia. It is going to fit out two ships, which are to sail from this place with a cargo of provisions, anchors, cables, rigging, &c. to go round the Southern extremity of America, across the South Sea, to the North West Coast of America, and the Alensiah Islands, to supply the Russian establishment there with these necessaries; take in a cargo of furs to be bartered in China for Chinese goods, to make by the way an establishment at Urup, one of the most Southerly of the Kurile Islands, for the greater convenience of trade to Japan; and to return to China by the Cape of Good Hope.

The ships will be wholly manned with Russians, and the Emperor, who approves of the plan, has ordered that the best officers and sailors of the navy shall be employed in the expedition.

As this is the first voyage round the world undertaken by Russians, no pains are spared to assure to the expedition a happy result. The command of the ships is given to capt. Krurnstern, who has been long in the E. Indies, and was the first proposer of the plan. For the information of the establishment at Urup, the company has engaged an Englishman residing here at an anual salary of 15,000 roubles, for three years, and a douceur of 20,000 roubles; he is also to superintend there the building of the necessary ships. Hitherto all the above necessaries have been transported a vast way by land carriage, at an enormous expense to the company.

That no time may be lost, these two ships will be purchased at Hamburg, and will sail on their voyage from that port in October. (Ham. Paper)
